NY's Best Cheap Eats Picked by Top Chefs

Friday, May 4, 2012

Spend big bucks and you can enjoy fabulous gourmet meals in New York. How about eating well for just a few dollars? I asked chefs and restaurateurs from the U.S. and around the world where they go for simple, inexpensive food. Here's what they had to say.

David Bouley (Bouley, New York): "Right now my favorite spot for inexpensive eating, or eating in general, is Buvette, in the West Village. Jody Williams is doing pure honest cooking, super clean, fresh flavors and it is one of the few restaurants I have found that makes me feel warm all over and is reminiscent of my French mother and grandmother's cooking."
